

Nicholas Penna Jr

3 Tips for a Perfect Short Hairstyle

Written on November 1, 2010 at 9:30 am, by Chelsea Rae Simmons

I used to dream of having a long, flowing mane, but fate had other plans. I've learned to accept and adore my above the shoulder locks, and now celebs like Ginnifer Goodwin and Keira Knightley are embracing a short-stranded look, too. Here are my top three short-hairstyle tips:

1. The right cut matters. Whether you want a shoulder grazing bob or a dramatic pixie, your cut should be tailored to your face shape and features. "The pixie cut is great because it's a classic cut that can be tweaked and styled according to your mood, your outfit, or your personality," says Nicholas Penna, Jr., owner/lead stylist of SalonCapri.
2. Shine is key. With less hair to distract the eye, it's important to make sure your strands look as healthy as possible. Penna suggests using thermal protection products when styling and finishing with a spritz or two of shine spray (try: Pantene Heat Protection & Shine Spray).
3. Accessorize, accessorize, accessorize! No matter the length, hair accessories can emphasize your entire look. Go ahead, show off your new pixie cut with a jeweled headband, add some glamour to your bob with sparkly hairpins, or use a pretty clip for a simple updo.

How do you ensure your short hairstyle is the talk of the town, or at least the office?

Categories: Beauty, Ladies' Lounge | Tags: Ginnifer Goodwin, Keira Knightley, Nicholas Penna Jr, Pantene Pro-V, SalonCapri, Short Hair Tips | 1 Comment