THEIR OCTOBER 31 I do's were everything Josh McKenna and Pamela Lucier had envisioned: elegant — and efficient! “We wanted quick vows so we could get on to the party!” the groom, an Army vet, says of the 30-minute ceremony performed by a justice of the peace at the historic Boston Public Library. And party they did — thanks to Us and WeddingChannel.com’s $100,000 wedding giveaway. The pair met at a 2007 Jimmy Buffet concert while McKenna, 31, now a TSA officer at Boston’s Logan Airport, was on a two-week leave from Iraq. They worked for just two months with planner Michael Russo, who also designed weddings for Kevin Jonas and Joey Fatone. Says Lucier, 25, a Lunenburg, Massachusetts, office manager, “It’s been a whirlwind!” After the vows, 150 guests sipped cocktails and local Narragansett beer before dining at flower-filled tables labeled with romantic film titles such as Doctor Zhivago. The couple led the bridal party into the reception to the tune of “Thriller,” then danced solo to Etta James’ “At Last.” “It was beautiful,” says WeddingChannel.com’s Amy Eisinger. “An incredible celebration.”

The color scheme was pink and cream.

Their 'I Do' Details

CHIC VENUE

The Boston Public Library, with elegant mahogany-paneled rooms, provided the setting. “It was classic,” says wedding planner Russo, owner of Roses-n-Lollipops.

First up, the perfect coif.

TASTY DELIGHTS

Guests noshed on fare like codfish cakes and herb-crusted sirloin from the Catered Affair.

GLAM SQUAD

A SalonCapri pro accented her do with an Untamed Petals clip.

MOOD MUSIC

DJ Michael Amado from Entertainment Specialists played tunes such as Lynyrd Skynyrd’s “Sweet Home Alabama” and Flo Rida’s “Club Can’t Handle Me.”

AISLE STYLE

Lucier donned a Lela Rose gown ($4,295), bridesmaids rocked Alvinna Valenta dresses and groomsmen wore Calvin Klein tuxes from Men’s Wearhouse.

THE BLING

The bride dazzled in baubles on loan from Jacob the Jeweler, including a 9.12-carat diamond bracelet. She gifted her five bridesmaids with initial necklaces from Gemvara, a fave of Khloé Kardashian.

FLOWERS & INVITES

Stem Design filled the space with roses and hydrangeas; Wiley Valentine did the invites and menus.

Cupcakes Couture of Manhattan Beach, CA, which has provided confections for Courteney Cox, created the cake.

Anthony Vazquez Photography and Joseph Edwards Wedding Filmmakers, who shot Kevin Jonas’ wedding, captured the day.

“She is my best friend,” says McKenna.
